In Frankfurt, the Chasam Sofer and R' Don Guggenheim helped the rabbanim raise money. But when the Maharit Algazi received money from Mr. Lilenthal, he said, "This does not seem like kosher money. Please return it."

Mr. Lilenthal was furious. He said, "Whether he likes it or not, the Rav will use my money!" He traveled to Eretz Yisrael and offered to buy new furniture for Yeshivas Beit-L.

The gabba'im were happy to accept.

When the Maharit Algazi returned, he entered the Beis Midrash and saw the new furniture. Right away he understood what had happened and cried, "Take them out! They give off a stench of tumah, and we cannot learn Torah on them in purity!"
